Selectmen of Warner.

REPORT

OF THE

SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

We think that from year to year there is a real, though slow, progress in our schools. One way in which this is manifested is in the erection of better school-houses. We desire to call the attention of district committees to the importance of becoming acquainted with the most recent improvements in school buildings, when a district is about to re-build. The subject has been made a study, and by availing themselves of the best information, districts may with but small increase of cost, erect a more tasteful building, with improved desks, and methods of ventilation. The latter point is very important. The health of teachers and scholars suffers from the close, ill-ventilated school houses in which they are confined so many hours. Even now, if each district would provide a thermometer in its school-house and see that the air is kept of uniform temperature, much injury to health would be prevented, which arises through excessive heat and sudden cooling off.

It is well that in many cases prudential committees have employed the same teacher during both terms. Where a good teacher has been secured, it is clear loss to make a change. We think prudential committees should more uniformly show their interest in the school by visiting them. Thirteen districts of the town report during the past year no visit from the prudential committee.

We call the special attention of teachers to the importance of answering all the questions of the school register. In many cases, some of the items are omitted, and it is impossible therefore for the superintending committee to furnish the complete report required by the laws of the State. Where part of the pupils reside in another town or district, they should be separately reported.

We suppose that parents need no reminder of the fact that all law, both human and divine, permits and commands them to correct their children when they need it; and that they themselves are to be their own judges as to when they need it, what kind they need—moral or physical—and the amount; subject of course to the laws against cruel, unjust and inhuman treatment. If the moral or reasoning faculty of the parent is depraved or deficient, the child is in danger of undeserved and unmerciful punishment. Such, also, is liable to be the result when natural affection is wanting. There is also another cause which sometimes brings heavy blows upon the heads of children for very trivial offences, — and that is, the loss of temper when, from some sudden event, a gust of passion sweeps across the mind, bending all reflective power in submission to it.

Now the relation of teacher to pupil in the school-room is the same as that of parent to child at home. The right to punish and determine the kind and amount of punishment is the same in both cases; and the parent who refuses to surrender his child to the control of its teacher fails to comprehend the spirit that conceived the common school system, or understand the laws by which it is sustained. But teachers should remember that the law of obedience at home is generally tempered with love and affection, and that in the discipline of the school-room they should themselves execute judgment with mercy. They should not forget that they are frail mortals, like all the rest of poor human nature, liable to err in judgment and inflict imprudent punishment; and if they do not appreciate the delicate responsibility of their trust—the confidence reposed in them by parents and committees—and, above all, if they do not reflect upon the imminent danger and injustice of taking vengeance on a pupil while under the influence of anger, they are totally unfit for the school-room.

The head is not to be pounded—it is the dome of thought; kicks and cuffs will only blunt the finer sensibilities and disfigure the growing “image of God.” Let the punishment be prudent and humane, and in no way calculated to leave a lasting injury, either to the body or to the mind.

Our teachers exert a very great influence upon the present and future character of the town. We rejoice to believe that so many of them are actuated by conscientious motives, and earnest desire for the improvement of their pupils. One point which does not always receive proper attention in the school-room, is the inculcation of good manners. Good manners are closely connected with good morals, and with good habits of study. Teachers should instruct their pupils as to the impropriety of those violations of good manners too common in the school-room out of school hours, such as whistling, boisterous talking, wearing of hats, putting feet upon the desks, or running noisily to and fro; and not only so, but they should teach them the great importance of everywhere showing respect to older persons, and courtesy toward each other. They should teach them true politeness, which has been defined to be “the preference of others to one’s self in the little common affairs of life.” The child who has not learned this is poorly educated.

But great as is the influence of teachers in this respect, that of parents is much greater. Parents, you are the chief educators of your children. If by precept, and much more by example, you teach them at home the love of knowledge, courteous and respectful treatment of others, and reverence for the commandments of God, you give them a start in life which is worth more than thousands of silver and gold.

And in this connection we desire to heartily congratulate parents and all other citizens, upon the prospect of the speedy opening of a free High School among us, which will afford to the youth of this town opportunities for instruction far beyond what they have hitherto enjoyed. Such a school must prove an incalculable blessing to the place. Continuing generation after generation, its elevating influence will in due time be felt in the remotest farmhouse. Every citizen will come, in future, to feel an honest pride in it; and now at its outset, it ought to receive from all of us the most cordial and grateful support.

We subjoin the reports from the several districts. A few of them were prepared by Rev. Mr. Heald who, by removal from town, vacated his position upon the committee. A statistical table of the schools will be found at the end.

DISTRICT NO. 1.—DIMOND'S CORNER.

Two terms of eight and seven and two-thirds weeks. Teacher during both terms Miss Ann W. Heath. The number of pupils in this district is sufficient to awaken the best energies of the teacher. Few of them are far advanced, but many of them are capable of becoming excellent scholars if parents and friends take a proper interest in their education. Good order, diligence, punctuality and freedom from whispering have characterized the school during the year. Miss Heath always wins the respect and regard of both parents and scholars. She is a kind, faithful, reliable teacher.

DISTRICT NO. 2.—LOWER VILLAGE.

Two terms of eight and ten weeks. Teacher during both, Miss Priscilla A. Elliott, of Webster. The district is to be congratulated on the much needed improvement of their school-house. Two hundred and ten dollars have been spent in renewing the roof, chimney, floor, plastering, desks and doors. It is to be regretted that new windows were not obtained to correspond with the other improvements.

The usefulness of this school was diminished during the winter term by the inattention to study, and rudeness of a few older boys. Miss Elliott deserves the credit of making faithful efforts for the advancement of her pupils. She needs, however, more firmness, animation and power of awakening enthusiasm. Less help should be given to the scholars in answering questions. If the teacher answers the questions for the scholars, their minds are not awakened, nor their independence cultivated. For whatever evil there has been in the school, however, the chief responsibility belongs to those parents who have never taught their children obedience, respectfulness and decorum at home.

DISTRICT NO. 3.—NORTH VILLAGE.

Summer term taught by Miss Augusta Wheeler. The school appeared well on both visits, and the progress made was all that could be expected from so short a term—only six weeks. Arithmetic and geography, particularly map studies and drawing, were taught with marked success.

Mr. John George, 2d, taught the winter term. This term, also, was lamentably short, being but seven weeks. This was Mr. George's first appearance in the robes of a pedagogue, and we are pleased to observe that it was a success. He proved himself a wide-awake, energetic teacher. Securing the favorable impressions of parents and pupils at the beginning, he maintained them to the end. The exercises in reading were very good, showing that particular attention had been paid to correct and distinct pronunciation.

DISTRICT NO. 4.—SCHOODAC.

Two terms of nine and nine and one-half weeks, both taught by Miss May C. Colby. This school has been in every respect a success. The pupils all recited in a manner which indicated study, and many of them are very promising scholars. The order was excellent, the pupils having evidently been too much interested in study to find any time for mischief. Hearty interest in study is the true foundation for good order. So commendable a result could not have been secured without constant energy and fidelity, as well as aptness to teach, on the part of Miss Colby. The services of so valuable a teacher ought constantly to be secured in some district of the town.

DISTRICT NO. 5.—PUMPKIN HILL.

There were two terms taught by Miss L. C. Sargent. Only three scholars attended the first term. They seemed interested and earnest in their work. Miss S. proved herself an efficient teacher. There were more scholars the second term, but as it closed sooner than your committee expected, we did not visit it, but have no doubt that it was successful from our knowledge of the management of the first.

DISTRICT NO. 6.—BURNT HILL.

Both terms taught by Miss Elsea S. Clough, who is too well known as one of our best teachers to need comment here. At the examination of the winter term it was evident that satisfactory progress had been made during the year in all the branches taught, and that that "spirit of diligence and genuine interest in study" which was reported one year ago, was still maintained.

Eight scholars are reported as not having whispered without leave during the summer term. Nobly done! There is a bright future for this district.

DISTRICT NO. 7.—KIMBALL.

Two terms of five weeks each, taught by Miss Mary J. Bates. The number of pupils was but seven. They were orderly, well behaved and interested in their studies. The teacher did not merely hear the lessons in mechanical routine, but sought by other questions and by imparting information to awaken intelligent interest in knowledge. In this she was as successful as circumstances rendered possible. It is true as she remarks, that the amount of schooling is so small that some of the scholars seem to forget from year to year what they have previously learned, and have to begin over again. We know not how this evil can be remedied unless by changing the boundaries of this and some other districts to accord with the change of population. The system of school districts proposed by our State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in his recent lecture at the Town Hall, deserves at least our consideration.

DISTRICT NO. 8.—BURNAP.

Mrs. Lizzie H. Drew taught the summer term, who had taught fourteen terms before. Her scholarship is above the average of teachers in our summer schools. We saw little to criticise at the close of the school, and think she earned her wages well.

Second term taught by Miss Minnie L. Bartlett. Miss B. has many qualities very desirable in a teacher. She secured the good will of her pupils; she secured the love of her pupils and through their love and good will secured good order and maintained it to the end; and thus the most gratifying success was consummated. Miss. B. has herself had the advantages of first class teachers and profited by them. Her admirable method avoids confusion at all times, and we bespeak for her a bright future as a school-mistress. We find some very promising scholars here, and they appeared admirably well in all the branches taught.

DISTRICT No. 9.—WATERLOO.

Both terms were taught by Miss Mary E. Webster. The school appeared well at the first visit to the summer term, and the only one we were able to make. Miss W. is a young lady of culture, and entered upon her task with an earnest desire to make the term a profitable one for the children of the district. We should judge from all the means we have of knowing, that the success was good.

The winter term was also a successful one, the teacher thoroughly establishing her reputation as a first class school-mistress. We find here the neatest school-house, some of the best readers and most advanced scholars in town.

DISTRICT No. 10.—COLLINS.

Only one term, and that taught by Miss Ida F. Barnard. Miss B. was very faithful with her scholars, and evidently had all the success that so small a school would admit of. The scholars were remarkably attentive and docile, and the progress made was satisfactory.

We find one scholar here who begins to feel the need of a teacher with attainments above those usually required by our common school teachers. It is to be hoped that the high and noble, as well as the economical scheme of uniting with No. 18, will soon be consummated.

DISTRICT No. 11.—TORY HILL.

The summer term was taught by Miss Mary A. Johnson, who has taught several terms in town, and with the most complete success. The order was good and the instruction thorough. The school appeared extremely well. The only fault worthy of any note was the failure on the part of a few to speak in a distinct and clear tone of voice,—a fault very common, and requiring much care to overcome.

Winter term taught by Mr. Walter Sargent, whose efforts were crowned with their usual good success. He knows as well as any one what marvelous results are obtained by constant and persistent drilling, and he has as much reason to be proud of his classes in arithmetic as thankful for the material he had to work upon. The school stands high, and the examination evinced thoroughness in all the branches taught. The scholars generally do not speak quite loud enough.

DISTRICT NO. 12.—COUCH.

There were two terms of ten weeks each. During both of them the school was taught by Miss Isabella A. Morgan, who resides in the District. The number of pupils is very small—nearly all from one family. They seemed industrious and interested, and did credit to their teacher by their appearance at the examination.

DISTRICT NO. 13.—CENTRE VILLAGE.

Higher Department.—The summer term was taught by Miss Helen F. Collins. We can write at the close of this term complete success. This was the feeling, we think, of every one present at the examination. This department has been the object of much anxiety on the part of your committee.

The deportment of the scholars and the general spirit of the school-room were pleasant. Miss C. governed well, because she ruled with firmness and kindness. Order was secured, and at the same time the love and respect of the pupils. And the instructions were no less thorough than the discipline. The interest manifested and the the improvement indicated at the examinations were commendable.

The winter term, of ten weeks, was taught by Mr. S. C. Pattee, who is well known to our citizens as a steadfast friend of education, and a good and efficient teacher. He labored diligently for the improvement of his pupils, and both he and they deserve the thanks of the public for the pleasant entertainment given at the Town Hall after the close of the term.

Some of the best scholars in town are in this school ; yet, on the other hand, there is a larger proportion who seem indifferent to opportunities of improvement than in the out districts. Why is this? The radical difficulty is, that while we have in the village more to distract the minds of the young, we have not also a higher standard of education. Parents, and all the men and women of the community must appreciate more highly the great value of a thorough education. Then the children will unconsciously feel the influence, and a noble aspiration for improvement will be awakened in their minds.

Lower Department.—The summer and winter terms were both taught by Miss Emma B. Quimby who proved herself admirably qualified for the position. She was greatly interested in her work, and we have rarely seen such proof that a teacher had both gained the regard of the children and thoroughly awakened their minds.

DISTRICT NO. 15.—GORE.

But one term, the first eight weeks of which were taught by Mrs. S. J. Baker, and the remaining four by Miss Annette Andrews. The school was large for this district, having some fourteen scholars. The school appeared well on the first visit. Miss Andrews was very faithful and willing to do her whole duty; and the examination evinced a good degree of progress in the branches taught. We found one boy here who has never missed a day of school nor been late. Remarkable boy! We shall remember you and expect good things of you.

DISTRICT NO. 16.—DAVISVILLE.

The summer term of seven weeks was taught by Miss Ella A. Milton. It was her first school. She is a good scholar, very kind in the treatment of her pupils, and faithful in efforts for their improvement. She should endeavor to carry more energy and life into her manner into the school-room. With this she may become an excellent teacher.

The winter term of seven weeks was taught by Miss Rhoda B. Thompson, who is well known in town as a competent, faithful, valuable teacher. A spirit of good order and diligence is characteristic of the school in Davisville. The teacher expresses her confidence that the pupils have made progress during the year, and adds, "I feel sure that with continued, earnest effort some of them may make their mark in the world." The school appeared well at the examination.

DISTRICT NO. 17.—MILLVILLE.

The summer term was taught by Miss A. M. Pierce. This school is one of much interest. Miss P. entered upon her work with the earnest purpose of making this term a successful one. She succeeded well, and if there was any failure it resulted from a too strong desire to have her scholars appear well in the recitation. There was too much assistance in the answers, by the teacher;—a common fault. The order of the school and the improvement were very fair.

The winter term was under the instruction of Mr. Herman G. Brown. This is one of our largest and most interesting schools—just such a one as an efficient, high-toned, self-reliant school-master wants and should have; scholars enough, material good; what a rich mine of the germinal principles of mental power for the master-workman! Mr. Brown is a fair teacher and his success was quite satisfactory. Instruction in reading was not quite what it should have been. Lively action, quickness of apprehension, and facility in execution are important requisites in a teacher of this school.

DISTRICT NO. 18.—COLLEGE.

The summer term was taught by Miss Jennie A. Wilson. She had so few scholars and so short a term that it is more difficult to speak of her qualifications as a teacher than it would be under circumstances calculated to bring into play her whole energy. We think, however, she is a very good teacher,—that she taught successfully the various branches, and that the scholars made satisfactory progress. The scholars here are abreast of the best in town, of their age.

The winter term was begun by Miss Kate Presby, who evidently secured the good will of all concerned, but in consequence of sickness at home was obliged to abandon it in a few days, much to the regret of all her pupils. The term was finished by Miss Louisa Dowlin, who is well known as one of our most experienced and successful teachers. Owing to circumstances which it is needless to mention here, this term did not receive a second visit.

DISTRICT NO. 19.—LIBERTY UNION.

This district had but one term, which was held in the winter and taught by Mr. Alfred W. Sargent. It was his first term but he secured fair success. He evinced a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of all the branches taught, and the success in grammar deserves particular mention. The pupils were diligent and faithful to their books at the beginning and close of the term, and appeared very well at the examination. We think if Mr. Sargent will attend some first-class academy a term or two, and thus secure a practical knowledge of the best methods of instruction, and that suppleness and flexibility of thought and action which is so requisite to enable a teacher to impart his knowledge with ease and perspicuity to others, he will make one of our best teachers.

DISTRICT NO. 20.—ROBY'S CORNER.

Both terms were taught by Miss Frank Redington, who is well known wherever she has taught as being an excellent teacher. She possesses mental culture and power that enables her to instruct and govern with ease. We only wish that she had been placed in a position where she would have had all her abilities brought into active exercise. Every branch was thoroughly taught. The first term numbered from twelve to fourteen scholars. The first visit of the second term was unique. We were five all told. One teacher, two scholars, and two committee-men; one from Sutton, and one from Warner. The scholars came off with honor, though they evidently had the hardest of it. The appearance of the scholars on final examination fully sustained the high expectations that previous visits had inspired. Miss Redington certainly has a very remarkable faculty of imparting instruction logically and systematically, and of giving prominence to those topics, principles and land-marks of learning, without which the knowledge with which the mind is stored fails to remain long within reach of the memory.

DISTRICT No. 21.—HOWE.

Only one term, and that but eight weeks in length, taught by Miss Helen J. Eastman. The school appeared quite hopeful at our first visit, but we cannot say how successful the term proved, for we were not at the examination. We visited the house on the day fixed upon for the school to close, but the health of the teacher having failed the night before, the scholars were not there. We regret to feel it our duty to say here that the teacher received too high wages. Four dollars a week and boarded, keeping but five days in a week, with only seven scholars, and they in the rudiments of the common branches, is beyond reason, and not warranted by the condition of things in this district. There are some teachers, however, who would be profitable at that price. All the bright and energetic boys and girls in this district want to put them on a level with those of other districts is—to give them an equal chance.

DISTRICT No. 22.—NEWMARKET.

One term, taught by Miss Meribah A. Dustin. This was a splendid school of fifteen weeks. Miss Dustin has many extremely fine qualities for a teacher. Order, the attention of the scholars, a lively interest in the books and habits of study were soon secured; and what is better, kept up till the close. And now scholars, that line that appeared in the report of your school one year ago, which is as follows: "And the interest of her pupils in their appropriate work was slight," is wiped out,—you have written that emphatic word expunged across it; see to it that you never let it appear again. We rarely find in any school more gratifying progress made than was observed here. Can not the district secure the same teacher again?

DISTRICT No. 24.—JOPPA.

One term during the Fall, of six weeks, taught by Miss Elsea S. Clough. She is efficient in the instruction and government of a school. The praise justly belongs to her (and it is a most important qualification of a good teacher) of striving to make constant progress both as a scholar and teacher. The pupils did well, considering the shortness of the term, and parents and friends showed unusual interest in the school. But what a fact to put on record, that ten scholars in this town enjoyed only six weeks of schooling during the whole year! While such things can be, we have no right to say that the State gives all the children a common school education. A proper re-districting of the town, or the adoption of the Massachusetts system would remedy this evil, and give all the children good opportunities.

Respectfully submitted.
